PREFACE.

THIS List, which has been drawn up, under my superintendence, by Mr. Louis Fraser, contained, as originally prepared, only the Vertebrated animals living in the Gardens on the 31st of December last, on which day it has been the practice for some years to take an accurate census of the Society's stock. The Council having determined to print it, for the use of the Fellows and other persons who take an interest in the Collection, I have carefully revised the whole, and endeavoured to make it as complete as possible by adding the species received since the beginning of the year. A living collection being liable to perpetual change, it cannot, of course, be expected that a list of this sort can be absolutely correct at any given moment; but I believe that the errors and omissions, as it at present stands, are not very numerous.

It will be observed that the Society's Collection, which is supposed to contain the most extensive series of living animals in existence, embraces about 1450 specimens, illustrating 188 species of Mammals, 409 of Birds, 62 of Reptiles, and 23 of Fishes—altogether 682 species of Vertebrates. There is, besides these, a large series of Invertebrated animals of different classes, kept in the House devoted to Aquaria, which varies much in composition and amount. In the "Scientific Index" to the List of Animals in the Society's Gardens, published in 1844 (which is, I believe, the last classified list issued), the number of species exhibited is given as 335—namely 134 Mammals, 197 Birds, 3 Reptiles, and 1 Fish. This shows that we have made considerable progress since that period.

I may add, that I am solely responsible for the arrangement and scientific nomenclature of this list and for the correct determination of the species. The difficulty, I may almost say the impossibility, in many cases, of ascertaining the specific names of living animals with perfect accuracy, is too well known to render apologies necessary in several cases where I may have failed in effecting this object.

PHILIP LUTLEY SCLATER,

Secretary to the Zoological Society of London.

11 Hanover Square,
June 2nd, 1862.
